

Dear Hiring Manager

I'm a passionate designer with background in user flows, UI patterns, and wireframing. I spent the last year perfecting my abilities as a UX designer after working in the field for three years. In the past, I have worked on the creation of technologies like a new online portal and a management system that is customizable.

I'd be a great fit for this position since I've had success converting complex issues into straightforward, approachable answers. This enables me to provide the team a wealth of useful perspective. I think your company's commitment to innovation and emphasis on teamwork is the ideal setting for me to succeed as a designer.

I'd be interested in learning more about this chance and talking about how my qualifications may help the company move forward. My resume is attached, and my online portfolio is accessible at ritikagudivaka.com. I'm interested in hearing from you.

Best,

Ritika Priyal Gudivaka
